“ Dr. Brown, on today I bask in the various conversations and memories we have had over the years. Your random requests for me to “volunteer” (volun-told) for the Celebration of Me Conference, guest speaker for a class, or something Chi Sigma Iota related. Many counselors who came through the VSU program are hurting because they know you were one of the few that understood and did the work to create competent and highly qualified school and mental health counselors for our communities. You embodied everything that Delta stands for and I am so very thankful that I was able to call you my Soror. I am praying for your family and everyone who knew you, as this is a great loss to many.

Thank you for teaching me. Thank you for seeing me. Rest Well Dr. Brown.

Thank you for the genuine friendship we shared and the love and support you showed me as an invited gues to speak to your graduate students when I first became a author and motivational speaker.

Many are called, but few are chosen. Indeed God chose you as a vessel to educate, motivate and inspire thousands of people. Tears of joy!

“ It has taken me a while to even write without breaking downDr. BrownDr. Brown this hurts....my heart hurts.... As I look back over the years and the pictures we took these are some of my favorites....you hated taking pictures but did it so I can have a picture of us at my house....when you would come to my house you would always say “Marsha you still got that ugly picture up” 😊

I am at a loss for words but feel like I have so much to say....you would always remind me how proud of me You were both professionally and personally, thank you for ALWAYS being that safe place when life got hard for me....thank you for being my friend, one of my confidants and my Soror!! I remember how excited you were for me when I became a Delta you always told me you secretly wanted me to be a Delta lolthank you for the relationship we were able build over the past 11 years or so....I feel like I am rambling....

We met for lunch in November and you finally got a chance to meet the baby....we talked about starting ATTITUDE again...we talked... about everything....

This hurts my heart knowing I can't call you anymore that VM you left on my phone on 12/9 will forever stay....I still have the letter framed that you wrote me in 2012.....I will hold on to that memory.... you were a phenomenal professor and a beautiful person inside and out....you will be missed....

REST WELL MY FRIEND AND SOROR
I LOVE YOU DR. BROWN ▲❤️▲

“ Dr. Brown was my sorority sister and colleague at VSU. It was such a pleasure to know her and work with her. She was an excellent instructor who was truly committed to her students. Without a doubt, there will be a void in the education department without her.

“ It is with sadness and tribulation as I write.

My dear friend, Dr. Retta Brown, has transitioned, faculty member, department head, Counselor Education at Virginia State University. I shall always cherish our "times" together; the laughs, the learning, and the friendship; the talks, the exchanges of ideas, and the days and nights of pontificating.

As I reflect on the 30 years of knowing her, I smile; I am thankful and grateful that we met in Greensboro, NC, and became instant friends. I can dearly and affectionately hear her call my name, Bellllllllll. And I called her Dr. Brown, with my biggest smile.

Paraphrasing the words of " You Are My Friend," I end here: The thought of you helps me carry on; we held hands, even without words; I will forever feel your love, even when you are not near. My Friend!

“ To Our Family: It saddened me deeply to hear of Ree's transitioning. I am sure she is on to greater things-that was how she lived her life-"on to greater things". I will miss her "hog" joke at the family reunion cause no one could tell it like Ree. We shared some good laughs about things of old when we would meet in and around town. Please family, know that you are in our thoughts and prayers today, tomorrow and in the days to come.
